KEEP TALKING TEACHING VERY YOUNG LEARNERS

GRAND BOURG AUGUST 25TH

KEEP TALKING DEVELOPING SPEAKING SKILLS WITH ADOLESCENTS AND ADULTS

It is often the case that we are faced with a silent classroom, no matter how simple the question we ask. This is often very frustrating, since we aim at developing all skills equally. In the case of teens and adults, it becomes an even more pressing matter as their ability to speak is the one they need to rely on the most in the world beyond the classroom. In this session we will explore together the reasons behind this apparent lack of engagement and share different examples of classroom practice that aim to overcome this hurdle and get our students to Keep Talking.

TEACHING VERY YOUNG LEARNERS

One may feel that teaching very young learners is a bit intimidating or daunting, or both for that matter. Well, it surely doesn't need to be! This workshop will seek to inspire and encourage you to take an active role in the classroom while exploring very young learners' learning process and what we need to bear in mind when designing our lessons. By analyzing the learning features of very young learners, we will understand the importance of songs, games, tasks suitable for young kids and story telling. Teaching very young children is no laughing matter but that doesn't mean we cannot share a few laughs while working on all of these teaching issues.
